

Weekly Quiz # 08

Due to exam time preparation, only 10 contributions were submitted. One contribution picked equation 3, one picked equation 2 and the remaining 8 picked equation 1. In a democracy the majority is almost always right. Consequently equation 1 is the only correct one, which can be also proven as all 8 have done. We have picked Mr. Rajiv Shankar's contribution of a generic example and Mr. Satyanarayana as the winner. All others have been following pretty much the same line of argumentation.

However some of the contributors already have received prizes in the past and were not given preference this time since there is a need to honor those who provide equally qualified and correct answers but have not yet received a prize.